Ronald McDonald House Charities

For 40 years, Ronald McDonald House Charities has been working to improve the health and well-being of children and their family. The Ronald McDonald House approach has been to think globally but act locally by tailoring their programs to address the most urgent needs of the community they serve. The Ronald McDonald House Charities of Charleston is a 27-bedroom home where families stay while their children undergo extensive medical treatment. Here, parents and children lead a life as normal as possible during their traumatic times, without the financial burden of costly hotel and travel expenses. Kiawah Island Golf Resort has been assisting the home for over five years with numerous acts to support those in need. A few of those volunteer contributions we have been involved with are:

Clean-up Days | Pull Tab Drives | 5 Star Day | Numerous food/sponsorship donations

Shell Collecting Etiquette

Shell collecting has long been a tradition for many families, and finding that prized shell to keep on your shelf can continually bring back memories of your beach vacation on Kiawah.

There are, however, some things to keep in mind when collecting shells, as they play an intricate role in keeping our marine environment in balance.

1. Shells provide a home for many animals once the original one is out. Hermit crabs frequently take them over, and many fouling invertebrates, such as oysters and barnacles, use them as a hard substrate to attach to.
2. Many shells have living animals inside them even if you cannot see them. Always double check by sticking your finger inside to make sure that no one is home before you take it.
3. Like us, mollusks use calcium from the water to help build their shell. As they break down and dissolve, it puts calcium back into the water for new shells to use and grow.

Next time you are out looking for shells, think about taking just one of each species, or for every shell you collect, pick up a piece of trash.

Thank you for helping keep Kiawah clean and healthy,
The Nature Program

Dolphin Strand Feeding

Help us preserve a unique feeding behavior

Kiawah Island is one of the few places in the world to witness a unique feeding behavior called strand feeding, where dolphins rush the beach to hunt fish. In many areas along the Kiawah River strand feeding can be seen from the water and land. This is a fascinating behavior, but dolphins must be given ample space. In the Kiawah River, we know this rare behavior is done only by a handful of individuals. Disrupting dolphins while feeding can result in stress, reduced success, or abandonment of this behavior altogether.

Please responsibly observe dolphins from a distance, as they will be much more likely to continue their unique strand feeding behavior.

Keep your distance from dolphins- it's the law!

The Marine Mammal Protection Act recommends not approaching dolphins within 50 yards from a vessel (kayaks included) and 10 yards from land. Never touch, feed, or encourage animals to approach you or your vessel. When in a vessel dolphins can approach you; however, do not chase, follow, circle, or separate groups. Continue your direction of travel, slow down and avoid sudden changes in direction.
